What's In

For the past grade levels in high school, you've learned about folk, indigenous, ethnic, traditional, and even festival dances present in the Philippines for Grade 7, Asian dance form, and lessons relative thereto for Grade 8. Now that you are in grade 9, you will become an ambassador of FITNESS by promoting the idea of "MOVE TO LEARN AND LEARN TO MOVE". Move to learn in the context of physical activity as the means for learning, while Learn to move embodies the learning of skills, and techniques and the acquisition of understanding that are requisites to participation in dance

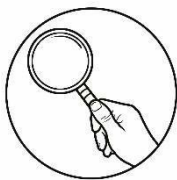

What's New

- I. ALTERNATIVE RESPONSE: Write TRUE if the statement about the dance etiquette is correct and FALSE if otherwise.
- _____ 1. Dance etiquette is the general term referring to the DOs and DON'Ts in social dancing.
 - _____ 2. In social dances and dance mixers, the more formal the dance the more formal the outfit.
 - _____ 3. It is always good to teach your partner on the dance floor.
 - _____ 4. In dancing Latin American dance, the appropriate it is expected that males should wear a Tuxedo coat, Bow Tie, and Black Trouser.
 - _____ 5. Under personal grooming, carrying an extra shirt is recommended.

II. IDENTIFICATION: Identify the dances below and classify them to where they belong. (10pts)

4.	9.
5.	10.
CHACHACHA, SLOW WALTZ, RUMBA, TANGO, SAMBA, VIENNESE WALTZ, PASO DOBLE, FOXTROT, JIVE, QUICKSTEP

What is It

Why do we care about dance etiquette? Because just like in any other event it is important to behave accordingly. Moreover, it will not just give you a great experience but will also widen your social networks. There are aspects of dance etiquette that we have to consider. The following are the said aspects.

- I. WHAT TO WEAR- In social Dances and Dance Mixers, the more formal the dance the more formal the outfit.

FORMAL

SEMI-FORMAL

CASUAL

LATIN MODERN STANDARD

II. PERSONAL GROOMING

Things to remember in participating in any dance activity.

Before the said activity it is but proper for you to take a bath and brush your teeth and use mouthwash/breath mint for you will be socializing with other people in that event and don does not use strong perfume because some are not comfortable smelling strong perfumes. Do not use anything that may cause a strong odor. During the activity, we are reminded to always be conscious about your grooming, freshen up and towel off periodically and it is also advisable to bring with you extra clothes to change if necessary.

III. ON THE DANCE FLOOR

To make sure that you are not colliding with other pairs always bear in mind to follow the counterclockwise direction. Be polite and approachable with your partner and accompany your partner back to her seat.

IV. NO-FAULT DANCING

As much as possible, you should dance at the level of your partner and never blame your partner for the missed execution of the figures. If unintentionally you committed some mistake, it ethical to apologize immediately.

V. DEMEANOR

Demeanor is how we behave, and we deal with other people. In the social dancing activity, there are things that we must consider like being approachable and having an eye to eye contact with your partner. It is you who should adjust to the situation so you must project a positive outlook even if it is not your style and if you don't know the dance be honest and refuse promptly if you are asked to dance and as a respect to your partner never teach your partner on the dancefloor for it may insult him/her.

These are the aspects of dance etiquette that we must consider for us to realize that there is more to dancing than dancing itself. It can develop not only your physical, your mental, and emotional but also your social skills most especially in a social dancing activity.

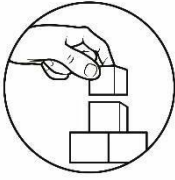

SOCIAL DANCES is a non-competitive version of ballroom and Latin dancing. It is comprised of all the same dances, like Foxtrot, Tango, Swing, or Cha-Cha, but designed to be used in practical settings like wedding receptions, nightclubs, business functions, or informal gatherings. Social dancing is less formal than exhibition dancing and is meant to be enjoyed while socializing. Social Dances are communal dances performed in social gatherings in any given space.

They are synonymously referred to as ballroom dances, but the former is performed in balls or formal social functions. They are also called ballroom dances. They are usually performed in pairs, male and female, but may also be performed in groups. The most important skill for good social dancing is Leading and Following. This is the non-verbal communication from the leader to the follower indicating the direction, timing, and style, among other things. If Leading and Following is a message, then good posture and dance frame are the antennae broadcasting the signal. Ultimately, social dancing is having the ability to converse while dancing. Being able to multi-task, like chatting about work or the weather while Waltzing, takes some practice but allows dancing to develop into natural use much quicker. There are two major classifications of social dances namely;

LATIN AMERICAN DANCE	MODERN STANDARD
They are called Latin American dances because most of them are from Latin-American countries. Latin American Dances include the salsa, mambo, merengue, swing, cha-cha-cha, rumba, samba, jive, boogie, and pasodoble. Latin dances distinguish themselves by the costumes worn by performers. They are somewhat revealing, tight-fitting, sexy yet sophisticated. They are also distinguished by the nature of the movements. They are freer and can be performed in the close or open hold.	Modern Standard dances, on the other hand, wear formal, ankle-length gowns for females and coat-and-tie for males. Most of the time, movements in these are restricted to a close ballroom position with a partner. Modern Standard Dances include the slow waltz, tango, Viennese waltz, foxtrot, and quickstep.

What's More
